'WE WILL NOT GO TO WAR OVER POWER PLANT PLAN'

DEVELOPERS' PLEDGE OVER POWER STATION IN NORTHAMPTON

The company behind a power station proposed for land on St James Mill Road in Northampton have vowed it "will not go to war with residents".

During an exclusive interview with the Chronicle & Echo, Rolton Kilbride – an amalgamation of Rolton Group engineering company and Kilbride infrastructure developers – said it would only submit a planning application for a waste-to-energy station on the site if it had the full support of people from the town.

Engineer and chairman of Northamptonshire-based Rolton Group, Peter Rolton, said: "We are beginning a six-month consultation process to share the facts about the station and gather feedback from residents. Only then will we begin putting together a formal planning application."

"I will not go to war with residents and, if after the consultation they still don't want the power station to be built, it won't happen."

Mr Rolton, originally from Towcester, said that the station, which will collect waste from Northamptonshire households and then use a process of gasification to turn it into power and heat, will "decentralise energy" and help to "break down the monopoly of The Big Six".

Profits from the privately-owned station will go straight back into the public pocket through a 'community energy scheme'.

Mr Rolton said: "We will sell the power back at the normal wholesale price and there will be no private stakeholders. By recycling this material we are also cutting the council's landfill bill in half."

In response to concerns about the impact of the station on the environment, Mr Rolton said: "The process of gasification doesn't use combustion so it will be releasing lower levels of carbon dioxide and monoxide than traditional incineration methods and other emissions are well below the national guidelines.

"Also, by producing enough energy to power 50,000 homes per year and, many people will be turning off their boilers."

Creating that amount of power will require 160,000 tonnes of material and only 30 per cent of waste put in black bin bags is usable – the rest is sent on to be recycled.

"We know people have been worried about the smell of rubbish being driven through streets and the effects on congestion," said Mr Rolton, "but there is actually no reason to drive through Weedon Road at all, as we can use the access roads into the industrial estate."

"Also, we are looking into how we can put the nearby railway back into use so it can benefit everyone."

Developers Rolton Kilbride have been revealed as the company behind plans to build a new power station in St James

All wrapped up this Christmas

Everything you need this Christmas is right here in Northampton town centre.

Northampton is bursting with culture and creativity, with theatres, museums, galleries and other cultural attractions offering yet more reasons to visit the town centre this Christmas. Plus, with free weekend parking and up to two hours free on weekdays in the council's car parks, getting here is a breeze.

Christmas Gift Ideas

Pop into Market Walk shopping centre this and next Sunday and meet Tinkerbell. Get a free photo and a chance to win a family ticket to see Peter Pan at the Royal & Derngate. You can find Tinkerbell next to Santas Grotto from 11am to 3pm.

Celebrate in Style

If you're planning a Christmas meal in Northampton with family, friends or colleagues, there are a host of eateries to choose from. Try a tiramisu in Sophias or a curry at The Royal Bengal, both along Bridge Street. For pizza, pasta and Mediterranean classics there is Sorrentino's in Gold Street and for some of the best fish in the area try The Vineyard on Derngate or The Seafood Café on St Giles Street.

Other highlights include both The Church, a 12th century building at the bottom of Bridge Street and The Old White Hart in Far Cotton - both with taste-bud tingling Christmas menus. www.thechurchrestaurant.com or www.theoldwhitehartinn.com

Read next week's Chronicle & Echo for more tasty food and drink destinations in Northampton town centre.

Winter Wonderland

Step into a Winter Wonderland at the Looking Glass Theatre, Derngate, from December 4th, where parents and carers can visit the theatre or leave their children under staff supervision while they visit shops in the St Giles Quarter, before returning back and seeing Santa. Take part in an Elves Workshop and then visit Santa for a present. Tickets are just £6 per child. For the Wonderland's first date, on December 4th, businesses in St Giles Quarter will be opening late until 7pm, with many serving mulled wine and nibbles. Just a few open until 7pm include Antiquities, Are You Being Served?, Bang + Olufsen, Bonds jewellers, Parties 2 Amaze, Peppertrees and Rococo.

Panto magic

Head to Neverland for a magical, swashbuckling Royal & Derngate pantomime adventure, Peter Pan, which stars acclaimed comedian and national treasure Joe Pasquale. On until January 4th.

The Royal & Derngate will also be transformed into the mythical kingdom of Camelot for an entrancing new take on the story of Merlin, while from December 13th to January 9th, under 5s and their grown-ups can enjoy Magical Mishaps, the story of a boy who wants to be a wizard and a girl who wants to be a knight.

You can also enjoy Cinderella at the Looking Glass Theatre. For full details of dates and prices, visit the theatre websites at www.lookingglasstheatre.co.uk and www.royalndderngate.co.uk.

Contemporary art at Christmas

NN continues to present the best in local, national and international contemporary art at Number Nine Guildhall Road, right at the heart of Northampton's Cultural Quarter. The autumn-winter ground floor gallery programme presents the final two exhibitions of the Northampton Multiverse season.

Venue is to lift its food restrictions as tickets go on sale for Jessie J gig

Food restrictions that angered visitors to this year's Alive @ Delapre will be lifted, it has been confirmed after pop star Jessie J was unveiled as the headline act for 2015.

Hundreds of people complained after organisers, Northampton Borough Council, stopped festival-goers from eating their own food inside the arena this year.

But in 2015, visitors will be able to take their own food and drink to the venue.

The news came as it was revealed that Jessie J would be performing at Delapre Park on Saturday, July 18.

Tickets went on sale on Friday and were expected to sell quickly.

Leader of Northampton Borough Council, Councillor David Mackintosh, said: "I'm really pleased that we have been able to book Jessie J, who is such a big star.

"It will be a great pleasure to have her in the line-up for the weekend and we look forward to her showing us what she can do.

"Jessie promises to be a winner for this year's third Delapre summer event.

"The Delapre grounds are the perfect backdrop for such a star and we encourage people to buy their tickets early to avoid disappointment."

The council's cabinet member for community engagement, Brandon Eldred, added: "The council has worked harder, year on year, since the first Alive @ Delapre in 2013 to get up-to-date and trending stars to join us.

"We hope next year's event, with quadruple platinum-selling pop superstar Jessie J, is one that stays in our memories and proves to be a great choice."

In new guidance to visitors, the borough council's website said: "You are welcome to bring in food and drink to the event.

"Please check the terms and conditions carefully as items including – but not limited to – glass, cans, tables and non-plastic cutlery and crockery are not permitted in the arena.

"You are allowed to bring no more than one litre soft/ alcoholic drink per person. Spirits are not allowed," the website added.

Tickets for the event are £39.75 (excluding booking) and went on sale on Friday from www.royalandderrnate.co.uk and Ticketmaster.

For more information about the Alive @ Delapre festival, visit www.aliveatdelapre.co.uk

Further acts will be announced next year.

Jessie J will follow the likes of Paul Weller and Boyzone by appearing at Alive at Delapre next year

'Eco' power stations

While plans for an 'eco-friendly' power station in Northampton are being heavily opposed, it has been revealed similar plans have been rejected elsewhere in the UK due to concerns over health and traffic congestion.

A private company, which has not yet been named, has been given first option on land at the Westbridge Depot, in St James Mill Road, by Northampton Borough Council to build a power station that will convert non-recyclable household waste into power through a process called gasification.

The council stressed it is not an incinerator.

However, similar plans have been rejected by some councils across the country after successful representations demonstrated that stations planned in those areas could pose a risk to public health.

Hundreds of residents of Eccles, in Greater Manchester, campaigned vigorously against a waste-to-energy power station, claiming that emissions could be harmful to residents.

They were also concerned that transporting the waste to the station would have brought an extra 140 vehicles per hour on to already congested roads.

Councillor Lisa Stone (Lab, Eccles) said the local authority rejected the plan because of its potential effect on the Bridgewater Canal Strategy, a valued environmental asset to the community.

She said: "It would have been a blight on the area."

"Local people raised thousands [of pounds] to get legal representation against the plan and we visited a similar station elsewhere, where we came across one of the lorries carrying the waste material. The smell was awful."

Alan Brooks, chairman of Fresh Air Desborough, which had launched a 'Stop the Incinerator' campaign in response to a successful gasification facility plan for Magnetic Park, said: "These stations are becoming more prevalent in Northamptonshire but there are many issues."

"The one in Magnetic Park will actually import extra waste from up to 30 miles away and the energy created just goes into the National Grid."

Fresh Air Desborough has protested plans for

"Chemical waste which will be produced is toxic and we do not feel the technology is safe."

"Northampton people have a right to protest and the borough council should conduct a public enquiry if they are to allay the justified fears."

Council says no final decision has been made

Northampton Borough Council refused an appeal by Liberal Democrat councillors to 'call-in' the decision to give a company priority over the land at the St James Mill Road depot, but insisted they had not given the green light to a potential power station.

A council spokesman said: "The Cabinet decision was the start of a process and dependent on a planning application being submitted if the compa-

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Trevor Skidmore feels that it's all about service. 'Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 10 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole.'

Cloudy2Clear service the Northampton, Kettering, Wellingborough & Corby areas and Trevor is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. 'The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated.'

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Trevor a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Former burglar Peter Woolf has not committed any crimes for more than 12 years, changing his life after meeting victims of his crimes

Reformed criminal hails victim's plan

A reformed criminal who stopped offending after he came face-to-face with his victims, has backed a new programme of restorative justice being introduced in Northamptonshire.

Police and Crime Commissioner Adam Simmonds has commissioned Restorative Solutions CIC, a national organisation, to help provide support and training across the county.

Working with Northamptonshire charity, Groundwork, Restorative Solutions will work with Northamptonshire Police officers, as well as schools and colleges to use techniques such as formal meetings involving victims and offenders.

The programme has been funded with £95,000 of Ministry of Justice money given to the Office of the Police and Crime Commissioner (OPCC), as well as £50,000 from the county chief executives group, while the social financing organisation, the Underwood Trust, donated another £50,000.

Speaking at the Restorative Northamptonshire launch last Friday, Peter Woolf, aged 57, who has been in prison for a total of 18 years during his lifetime after committing offences including robbery and burglary, said meeting victims was the "hardest thing he had ever done".

He said: "I was a career criminal who had committed every offence there is, apart from murder and any sexual crimes.

"Until 2002, my idea of a victim was an A4 piece of paper. I did not feel the human impact of it all. But when I met the victims of the crimes I had committed for the first time, it was the hardest thing I have ever done.

"You can't forget it when you are made to feel someone else's pain," he added.

Mr Woolf said he had not committed another crime since the meeting with his victims 12 years and eight months ago and gave his full support to the project.

Britains DNA

Unwrap the past this Christmas

Are you a Saxon, a Viking, or a Norman? Or are you descended from another of the hundreds of lineages from all over the world that are found in the DNA of the British?

All of us on these islands are immigrants, descendants both of pioneers who repopulated the North after the end of the last ice age and also much more recent arrivals. BritainsDNA can answer an age-old question - it can tell you where you come from.

Dealmonster is offering £50 off the Chromo Complete test for men, reducing it from £250 to £200 and the test for women is reduced from £220 to £170. Go online or call now for this time-limited offer, and take a journey to the past this Christmas. It ends at midnight Sunday 14th December.

Vendetta fears as street hit by vandals

A spree of vandalism along St Giles Street in Northampton has left several firms picking up hefty repair bills for smashed shop windows.

Over the past fortnight, glass fronts have been shattered along the street by vandals using objects such as large stones and traffic cones.

Police are now searching CCTV footage from the past two weeks to find out who might be responsible.

It has left the six affected businesses questioning why the area, known for its variety of independent traders, has been targeted.

Jan Boreham, who owns the Northampton Sewing Studio, in St Giles Street, had her shop window smashed a fortnight ago. She said: "It's almost like someone has got a vendetta against the whole street, but what have we done here in St Giles?"

Michella Dos Santos, who owns the Magic Bean Emporium dessert parlour, went

Vandalism spree Michella Dos Santos stands outside her dessert parlour - the Magic Bean Emporium - which was one of six businesses on the street to be vandalised into her premises on Sunday to find a large hole in the front window and remnants of a traffic cone strewn on her shop floor.

"It has really hurt us," she added. "We were forced to close on Sunday and Monday. I was gutted. Every night we are thinking, 'who is going to be next?'"

Possibly over the same weekend, owner of Koko hairdressers Andrew Phylactou, went came into his premises to find the front window shattered by what appeared to be a large stone.

A spokesman for Northamptonshire Police said: "These attacks seem to be happening in the early hours of the morning and we would urge anyone who knows anything about the incidents to contact 101 with information."

Golden Ticket chance to win £4k to spend

Shoppers in Northampton are being given the chance to win £4,000 of vouchers to spend in the town centre as part of a Golden Ticket giveaway.

For the second year running, the Northampton Town Centre Business Improvement District (BID) has organised a Golden Ticket Prize Draw exclusively for town centre shoppers.

Backed by the Chronicle & Echo, eight winners will each win £500 of gift vouchers and will be asked to choose two town centre businesses to spend their winnings in, one of which must be an independent store.

To enter, shoppers will need to complete a Golden Ticket entry form – available from town centre businesses and also printed in the Chronicle & Echo in the four weeks leading up to Christmas – and post it in one of the town's five Golden Ticket post boxes. The first two winners will be announced next week.

Jessica D'Aulerio, chairwoman of Northampton Town Centre BID, said: "This prize draw will not only be a wonderful Christmas present for our eight shoppers and their families, but will also bring more shoppers into our town centre, a key objective for the BID.

"Crucially the winning vouchers must be spent here in the town centre, enabling us to support our range of independent, high street, shopping centre, cultural and creative businesses during this peak, festive period," Jessica added.

"So, whether you want to shop till you drop, enjoy a meal, book theatre tickets or save vouchers for the New Year sales, we would urge you not to miss out and to enter today."

The BID's two recently-recruited Northampton town centre 'hosts' will also be promoting the prize draw, delivering entry forms to businesses and encouraging shoppers to take part.

ROAD TEST - NISSAN PULSAR 1.2 DIG-TN-TEC

Nissan sets Pulsar racing

Nissan is scratching a seven-year itch and entering a vital part of the car market where it's been absent since 2007, while it's been making a mint with a couple of SUVs.

Now the Qashqai and Juke are pulling in punters like there's no tomorrow, it's high time to put up something against the likes of Ford's Focus, helping fill a part of the market that accounts for one in three new cars sold in the UK.

The result of much mid-night oil burning is the Pulsar.

This five-door hatchback follows the same design path chosen by competitors, and majors on space and the chance to add the sort of technology usually associated with dearer cars. That can include four cameras that give a bird's eye view of what's around the car and automatic emergency braking which can stop the car at low speeds before you hit the vehicle ahead.

The Pulsar looks smart from the outside and is clean and uncluttered inside.

Nissan has pushed front and rear wheels further apart than in any obvious rival and the resultant space in the back will easily manage a six-footer sitting behind a similarly tall driver. So for lots of drivers, the new Pulsar is going to be just fine in a model that costs less than it might.

Can't argue with that.

Our hearts still ache in sadness,

Our silent tears still flow.

For what it meant to lose you

Debbie,

No one will ever know.

Wilder bemoans injuries

Cobblers boss says constant flow of setbacks have 'hurt' him

FOOTBALL

Chris Wilder is unable to put into words how much the Cobblers' injuries this season has 'hurt' him as the team's manager.

Wilder lost midfielder Stewart Murdoch to a hamstring problem in the first half of Saturday's game at Southend United and the extent of that injury should be known at the start of this week.

Joel Byrom was also withdrawn with a neck injury but there was some positive injury news at Roots Hall, with Lewis Hornby named in a matchday squad for the first time since the 2013 play-off final, although he did not make it off the bench.

And Wilder should have defenders Ryan Cresswell and Zander Diamond, plus forward Lawson D'Ath available for selection when the team next plays, against Plymouth Argyle at Sixfields on December 13.

But the constant flow of injuries, at the rate of almost one a game this season, has hit the manager hard.

"It's hurting me more than anybody could ever say," he said. "It's never been this bad in any part of my career as a manager.

"We'll have to wait and see with Murdo and Joel (Byrom), it was just a collision where he couldn't move his head and his neck properly so that was a no-brainer.

"For a week on Saturday we've possibly got (Ryan) Cresswell, (Zander) Diamond and Lawson D'Ath back available.

"In that group there are players that have missed a lot of football but they will make us stronger."

Meanwhile, Phil Brown admitted the Cobblers' team selection at Southend left him 'astounded' but felt Chris Wilder almost got his game plan spot on.

Town's decision to leave out Chris Hackett, Ivan Toney and Kaid Mohamed left Brown puzzled as to what the team's line-up and strategy would be.

It was a replica of the narrow 4-4-1-1 the side used at Scunthorpe last season in which a 1-1 draw was salvaged with 10 men after the sending-off of Ricky Ravenhill.

Its use at Southend led to a dull game but Wilder said he was fine with that, while his opposite number Brown admitted his team had to fight hard for the three points.

KEY MOMENT Cobblers players dispute Jordan Archer's red card at Southend on Saturday

PICTURE: SHARON LUCEY

It was a hard fought victory for us in the end," said Brown. "I was astounded when I got their team sheet and (Chris) Hackett, (Ivan) Toney and (Kaid) Mohamed were missing.

"I didn't have a clue what formation they were going to play but they went with four central midfielders to cater for Jack Payne.

"You have to be patient and I think that was the key word today. It was repaid with a bit of a fortune when their keeper made the mistake.

"That was a defining moment because Northampton had been coming in to it up until then.

"The frustration and anxiety was rising but I always felt we had enough quality on the pitch to create chances and win it. The impetus and the flow of the game was going towards them before the first goal and I was thinking of subs and changing formation.

"It looks a comfortable 2-0 but it wasn't because at 0-0 their game plan worked."

Mallinder hoping North will return

JIM Mallinder is hopeful that George North will be fit to face Treviso on Saturday.

The Wales wing was assessed for concussion after sustaining a cut above his eye in his country's defeat to New Zealand on November 22.

He missed the win over South Africa last weekend and was given time off by his club, who won at London Welsh on Sunday.

But Mallinder is optimistic about the chances of North making a return in the crucial Champions Cup clash at Stadio Comunale di Monigo this weekend.

"George was in last week and he's recovering well," said the Saints director of rugby.

"He was away last weekend because we gave him a few days off and he'll come in and we'll have a good look at him.

"Hopefully he'll be available for selection for the weekend."

Saints were boosted by the return from injury of Sam Dickinson, who came off the bench at the Kassam Stadium last weekend.

And Mallinder is delighted to have the imposing No.8 back in action after his recovery from the neck problem that had seen him sidelined since the end of last season.

"It's fantastic when you get players back from long-term injuries and Sam's looking in good shape," said Mallinder.

"He's looking big, physical and he'll be really delighted that he's got his game under his belt now and he'll be looking forward to hopefully being selected this week."

Meanwhile, Phil Dowson praised 'professional and ruthless' Saints for Sunday's seven-try thrashing of London Welsh.

Jim Mallinder's men cruised to a 43-14 victory at the Kassam Stadium, returning to the top of the Aviva Premiership table in the process.

It was a comprehensive success that ensured Welsh would not claim a shock first win of the season.

"I'm very happy with it to be honest," said Dowson. "We went there saying we were going to be professional and ruthless and we scored seven tries.

"We were disappointed to concede twice but they were aside who are desperate and threw everything at us.

"In the most part we defended well and though we've got lessons to learn going into Treviso, if you'd said you can have a 43-14 win I'd have taken it.

"The difference in quality of players isn't massive but our drill eventually told and that gave us space out wide.

"You have to wear sides down and we just about did that on Sunday."
